W. P. WALTON.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

The stockholders of the Hustonville Stock Fair will hold a meeting to-morrow, preparatory to their great annual exhibition.

Mrs. Williams wants it understood that she will have no formal opening day of her stock, but is ready to welcome all who come.

Say to Joe Waters for me: All Hal! The lady will realize King David's boast in being led "beside the still waters." Her change of name will be significant of the melting influence of the balmy spring. May no "winter of discontent" ever chill their bliss nor "frenzied" the genial current of their life, until the very snows of age shall have melted beneath the fervid beams of an undimmed sunset.

—Wm. Dodd and Al Burns, G. M. Givens and J. W. Hocker are at Lexington attending the horse sale with several fine specimens of stock. Freely Pascoe is enthusiastic over the impression made here by his horse, Rockingman. G. M. Givens has almost wound up his work as deputy assessor. Messrs Smith and Green have returned from Cincinnati both active and cheerful. Dr. Brown will go to St. Louis next week as delegate to the American Medical Association.

—We have had a sensation or two of late the last of which came off on Friday evening. The story as related is about this. A man some 75 or 80 years of age was in town on that pretty drunk. On his way home he stopped at a house where there were some but women. There he got into some sort of a row with one of the girls. The mother rushed in armed with a hoe which she had been using in the garden and felled the aggressor by a well directed blow on the skull, after which they proceeded to drub him generally. It is said he lost his only eye in the maul and is otherwise pretty badly damaged.

An astrologer foretold the death of a lady whom Louis XI. passionately loved. She did, in fact, die, and the king imagined that the prediction of the astrologer was the cause of it. He sent for the man, intending to have him thrown through the window as a punishment. "Tell me, thou who pretendest to be so clever and learned a man, what thy fate will be?"—The sooth-sayer, who suspected the intrigues of the prince, and knew his foible, replied: "Sire, I foresee that I shall die three days before your majesty." The king believed him, and was careful of the astrologer's life.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS.—All the papers at present are talking about the doleful dress. The fact is the square neck toilet of to-day is as nothing compared with former fashions. The costume since 1200 A. D. has been periodically rising and falling. In the Fifteenth century Agnes Sorel is said to have worn costly gowns with trains one-third longer than any princess in the kingdom, and "and her bosom bare to the waist." It was the custom "when Madison was President" for the belles to dress with similar freedom.—[Memphis Times.

Arbitration is making its own way to a successful conclusion. The best thing Congress and the legislatures of the states can do is to keep hands off. No legislation is needed; it can do no good; it can not speed the day when labor and capital will alike accept arbitration as the one and only sensible way of adjusting differences.—[Scranton Republican.

To the City Council of Stanford.

The undersigned, by a resolution adopted at the regular meeting in March 1886, were appointed a committee to ascertain and report the financial operations of the Council since June, 1882, and the present financial status of the city of Stanford. They were unavoidably delayed in the preparation of their report by reason of the absence of the City Treasurer, but are now able to submit the following report touching the matters referred to them.

The moneys received by the city of Stanford from June, 1882, to April, 1886, from all sources, are as follows:

Total Receipts	$5,174.47

The expenditures for the same period have been as follows:

For salaries of Officers, 1883	$ 204.00

" " " " 1886	8.04
For new pavements, crossings, condemnations, &c., 1883	215.14
" " " " 1884	258.45
" " " " 1885	1,330.18
" " " " 1886	425.47
For difference between L. & N. E. R. and McAllister in price of land at Richmond Junction for Division purposes	67.50
Total expenditures	$5,182.27

The outstanding liabilities of all description are as follows:

Bonded Debt	$2,000.00
Unpaid Salaries	540.00
" " " " General Claims	384.41
Due T. P. Hill, for land taken	225.00
W. P. Walton, account for printing	58.00
Due City Treasurer (bal.)	7.80
Total	$3,210.21
Debts due the city and resources:
P. Embree, for pavement, note	$165.00

Lincoln County, pavement, lien	48.20
Presbyterian church, pavement, lien	171.92
Opera House license	200.00

Turnpike Stock in Stanford & Lancaster Road	800.00
Opera House Stock	1,000.00
Unpaid Taxes for 1885 (about)	400.00
Total	$3,182.23

So that it appears that the net indebtedness of the town is but $377.03. This, however, upon the assumption that the stocks owned by the city were worth par. These stocks in point of fact are of but little more than nominal value. Nor are they likely ever to be sold. Omitting them therefore from consideration, the net indebtedness of the city, floating and bonded, is $2,378.21. This is a gratifying exhibit, in view of the fact that in the past four years all the permanent improvements which the city is likely to need for years, have been made. Mill street has been widened and paved. Church street has been macadamized and paved. Logan avenue has been opened, graded and macadamized. Whitley avenue has been opened and heavy fill made at railroad crossing. East Main street has been widened and straightened, and a large, durable, underground brick sewer built across it. All this has been done outside the usual expenses of police, street cleaning and repairing, &c. It is thought that the ordinary revenues of the city, increased as they are by these improvements, will be amply sufficient without increase of taxation to defray the ordinary expenses of the city government and to pay off the small indebtedness within the next 3 or 4 years. Respectfully submitted, JNO. J. McROBERTS, Committee. W. G. WELCH.

DRIPPING SPRINGS.

Having been informed that quite a number were coming here on next Saturday to spend the day, I hereby invite all who will conduct themselves in a proper manner, to bring their dinners and spend the 1st day of May here, and make a regular picnic of it.

At night the place will be illuminated, and there will be a jolly, old fashion, country dance in the new Ball room just completed—kissing plays, country fiddlers, and lots of pretty girls are the attractions. Now who can stay away. During the last two months we have had several of these parties, and on every occasion there has been perfect order, and more fun than you can imagine. Respectfully, D. G. SLAUGHTER.

P. S. Regular season opens June 1st, Grand opening Picnic June 5th. D. G. S.

Eight Senators.

The terms of eight Senators expire with this Congress. They are Hale, of Maine, Edmunds, of Vermont, Dawes, of Massachusetts, Aldrich, of Rhode Island, Hawley, of Connecticut, Miller, of New York, Sewell, of New Jersey, and Mitchell, of Pennsylvania. They embrace all the old free States east of Ohio except New Hampshire. These eight Senators are all republicans.

Do the democrats expect to capture any of these prizes next winter? It is not so very long ago when all of these States, except Vermont and Massachusetts, were represented in the Senate by democrats. Add New Hampshire to the list, thus increasing it to nine, and it is but a short time since five of these States were among the democratic strongholds of the country.

Do the democrats of to-day propose to abandon this ground to the republicans, and allow them to elect the eight Senators to the next Congress? It would almost seem so. As the time draws near for the adjournment of the Legislature of these States, the drift of the talk on all sides appears to be as to whom the republicans will send to Washington. Except a few feeble hints now and then about the remote possibilities of getting democratic Senators in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, the whole eight are audaciously claimed by the republicans with scarcely a protest from their opponents.

Do the democrats, after a quarter of a century's exclusion from power, hope to resuscitate their party and rebuild it on solid and enduring foundations by a pusillanimous policy, and by declining to grapple with the republicans anywhere, and on all occasions?

Has President Cleveland no conception of the importance of these things to the democratic party?—[N. Y. Sun.

There are millions of capital in this country locked up in fear of being boycotted in case any business enterprise be embarked in. It will go into the channels of trade when some assurance is given that right shall prevail, and that one man shall have as much right as another.—[Indianapolis Journal.
